Joint meeting of GMA, Aquino Cabinets eyed

By TJ Burgonio

LOOKS LIKE PRESIDENT MACApagal-Arroyo will have an early meeting with her presumptive successor, Sen. Benigno Aquino III, and an early reunion with some members of the "Hyatt 10."

Malacañang has proposed a joint Cabinet meeting of the Arroyo Cabinet and Aquino's prospective Cabinet before June 30 to ensure a "seamless transition," and Ms Arroyo has approved of this.

"There would be a very good transition, and establishing rapport and establishing a relation between the outgoing and the incoming President," Social Welfare Secretary Celia Yangco said of the planned joint meeting.

The Arroyo-created transition team broached the idea to Ms Arroyo at last Tuesday's Cabinet meeting in Angeles City, Pampanga, and she later agreed to it, Yangco said.

"It was up to the other side to pick it up from there," she said.

Historic meeting

The transition team, which is chaired by Executive Secretary Leandro Mendoza, was looking at a date between June 1 and 20 for the joint Cabinet meeting, according to Yangco.

If this prospers, both Ms Arroyo and Aquino would be presiding over a historic meeting, with members of their respective Cabinets present.

Too, Ms Arroyo will be reunited with her erstwhile Cabinet members and prospective members of the Aquino Cabinet, including Corazon "Dinky" Soliman, Teresita "Ging" Deles, and Florencio "Butch" Abad.

Soliman, Deles and Abad were among 10 Cabinet officials who quit in July 2005 and called for Ms Arroyo's resignation amid charges of the "Hello Garci" vote-rigging scandal.

Aquino has indicated that he would tap Soliman as Social Welfare Secretary and Deles as the Presidential Adviser on the Peace Process. Abad is reportedly being eyed to head the Department of Education.

Ms Arroyo formed a transition cooperation team to brief the incoming Aquino administration about the "workings in the bureaucracy" as well as the state of government, such as its assets and resources.

Malacañang officials believed that Ms Arroyo was even willing to give Aquino a tour around Malacañang, despite recriminations over Aquino's pronouncements opposing the appointment of Chief Justice Renato Corona, and vowing to run after "thieves" in government.

'Sense of healing'

And given this atmosphere, the meeting would "promote unity, a sense of healing and togetherness," Yangco said.

"The joint Cabinet is also a very good demonstration to the people that leadership is a healing and uniting leadership, and therefore any past misunderstanding should be set aside, and we should focus on what we need to do, which is attending to the needs of the people," she said.

Under the planned joint meeting, Ms Arroyo will give a presentation about her accomplishments since she assumed power in 2001, according to Yangco.

"These are the accomplishments that we want to see. The outgoing President prepares report on the accomplishments where the new administration will build on. And perhaps in that meeting, the new administration, since they will be provided with documents ahead of time, can already see and study where they would rebuild and what they would put emphasis on," she said.

DENR tells mining firms to do more social work

By Riza T. Olchondra

THE DEPARTMENT of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) has directed mining companies to devote more funds to social development programs.

The DENR, through Administrative Order 2010-13, required companies to allocate at least 1.5 percent of their operating costs to social development, up from the original 1 percent.

In a statement, Environment Secretary Horacio C. Ramos said: "We have to ensure that the host communities get the benefits due them through projects and activities that have been agreed upon during the preparation of the company's social development and management program."

Social development funds may be used for projects such as classrooms, health clinics, sports facilities and livelihood training.

If a mining project falls within an ancestral domain, the 1.5 percent allocation will be spent on top of the royalty payment of the mining company to indigenous peoples (IPs) in the area.

DENR Administrative Order No. 2010-13, which revised the implementing rules and regulations of the Philippine Mining Act of 1995, defines operating cost as "the specific costs of producing a saleable product on a commercial scale as confirmed by the Mines and Geosciences Bureau (MGB)."

Manhattan Heights provides green living environment

Manhattan Heights, the new phase of Manhattan Garden City at the Araneta Center, provides urbanites a healthier and more natural environment.

Megaworld Corporation, the country's leading real estate developer, conceptualized a community that provides the "green" comforts of having nature so close to home: Manhattan Heights. Like jewels on the Araneta Center landscape, its four glass towers glimmer in hues of blue and white.

"With the right kind of environment and unparalleled convenience, living in the Metro can be a breeze. We have incorporated a lot of 'firsts' with Manhattan Heights because we want residents to have all the convenience of city living," Megaworld Central Properties Inc. President Anthony Charlemagne Yu said.

Links of convenience

The high-rise residential condominium enjoys direct access to the LRT-2 and MRT-3, being the first-ever 'transit-oriented' development in the country to be connected to two train lines. This allows you not only to commute in comfort but also help save gas and prevent air pollution. Everything is a few steps away. Manhattan Heights offers residents a network of above-ground walkways that link you directly to the Gateway Mall. No more walking on sidewalks to get to the supermarket, the restaurant or the movie theaters. Retail shops at the ground level of the towers will cater to your every need.

Manhattan Heights provides true green living options at the Araneta Center.

The skylights at the fourth level will surely make Manhattan Heights a unique, distinguishable address at Araneta Center every night.

To wine and dine with the greens by your side, head over to Gateway Mall's Oasis.

Heavenly garden

Manhattan Heights' crowning glory can be found on top of each tower-the Sky Garden. It's an open park that mirrors the lush landscape and cool breeze found in communities outside Metro Manila. The palm trees that surround the area and the pergolas above allow residents to hang out and breathe in the fresh air without worrying about being in direct sunlight. At night, the sky garden is even lovelier with a skylight feature that is as romantic as it is fascinating. Nature lovers can purchase the units at the four top-most levels of each tower to be as close to the sky garden as possible.

Fun and play the natural way

At the fourth level of Manhattan Heights is another garden that brings you all the amenities that you need to relax and rejuvenate your body and spirit. Kids will have a field day playing in the Daycare Center, the Play Area or in their very own pool. Adults can work their calories off in the Gym or in the jogging path. After which, they can relax with drinks in hand in the in-pool lounges or pamper themselves with a massage at the Spa area. Meeting rooms and pavilions are also excellent meeting places for work emergencies. All these are amidst lush green lawns and park trees that allow you to stay close to nature.

To experience the green features of Manhattan Heights, please call Megaworld at 615-3333, visit the Manhattan Garden City showroom at the 3rd level of Gateway Mall, or check out www.themanhattangardencity.com.

Sky gardens at the top four floors of all Manhattan Heights towers bring green features high above the metro.

Residential condo supply pipeline in BGC seen as 'strongest'

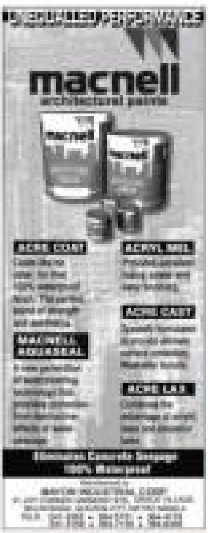

By Tessa R. Salazar

EVEN WITH FOUR HIGHLY PROMINENT RESIdential condominiums (the Ayala Land Residences in Greenbelt-San Lorenzo, The Columns at Legaspi, Century Properties Grand Soho Makati and Megaworld's Greenbelt Chancellor) scheduled to be completed in the Makati Central Business District this year, the supply pipeline flows even stronger in other Metro Manila submarkets, particularly Bonifacio Global City.

Colliers International (Philippines) April 2010 issue of the Knowledge Report indicated that by the end of the year, the total residential condominium stock in Metro Manila's central business districts (CBDs) will be 33,486 units.

Included here are over 6,000 residential units to be completed in the Makati CBD in the next four years alone. But to the report, the supply pipeline for residential developments in Bonifacio Global City has been described as

Sorrento Oasis Presents A Fresh Take On Urban Living

Let your family come home to freshness everyday.

Rush-hour traffic...smog...blaring car horns...busy streets crowded with people rushing to their destinations. Life in the city is a constant barrage of sights and sounds that leaves city dwellers feeling drained at the end of the day.

Thankfully, urban-weary folks can experience a breath of fresh air in urban living at Sorrento Oasis, an addition to Filinvest's growing portfolio of oasis-themed medium-rise condo communities located at the heart of key cities.

OASIS IN THE CITY

Sorrento Oasis brings a distinct freshness to urban living, taking inspiration from Sorrento, a charming town in Italy that remains one of the top holiday destinations in the world. Overlooking the coastline, Sorrento affords breathtaking vistas against a stunning panorama of the Bay of Naples. Abounding with picturesque streets, flourishing parks and sprawling villas, it is also renowned for its abundant citrus groves that release the invigorating fragrance of oranges and lemons carried by a gentle breeze all over town.

Filinvest brings this refreshing ambience to Pasig City with Sorrento Oasis' stylish five-storey condominium buildings set against a backdrop of verdant greens. With nine citrus gardens planted within the complex, residents can wake up to the zesty scent of citrus each day. It's indeed a welcome contrast to the concrete jungle.

"We want to offer professionals and start-up families residing in the metro a living space that will not only serve as their home, but also as their haven situated right here in the middle of the city," says Julian Concepcion, VP-Project Group Head of Sorrento Oasis.

Sorrento Oasis is a lush haven indeed, with over 60% of the property allocated for open spaces, leisure facilities and fragrant gardens. Within this low-density community, you get the generous amenity of breathing space plus a choice of comfortable studio, one-bedroom and two-bedroom units for your urban refuge.

ACCESSIBLE HIDEAWAY

Seemingly nestled in a world of its own, Sorrento Oasis makes sure that all your lifestyle requirements are within easy reach. It enjoys a highly accessible location along C. Raymundo Avenue in Pasig City, within striking distance from the workplaces of the Ortigas CBD.

Shopping for daily essentials is a short drive away at retail hubs such as SM Megamall, Tiendesitas, Eastwood City, [illegible], Robinsons Galleria and SM Hypermarket along C5. Quality education for your kids is minutes away at La Salle Greenhills, St. Paul Pasig, University of Asia and the Pacific, and Pasig Catholic College. And for your health concerns, The Medical City and Mission Hospital are within the vicinity.

REFRESHING AMENITIES

Completing the relaxing, laid-back ambience of Sorrento Oasis is a range of resort-inspired amenities that the whole family can enjoy. Start your day with a few rounds at the jogging path or lap pool. Host a swimming party at the clubhouse. Let your little ones have hours of fun at the play park and kiddie pool. When the stress of the outside world gets to you, recharge your spirit with some quiet time at the meditation pod or along the trellised walking paths.

"Filinvest understands that the daily commute is often a struggle for most people. That's why we have projects like Sorrento Oasis, which integrate fitness and recreational amenities with the residential component. Here, the possibilities for quality leisure time are endless, and you don't even have to leave home," explains Concepcion.

PEACE OF MIND

Along with the feeling of security that Sorrento Oasis offers, your safety is also guaranteed within its sheltered grounds. A buffer fence surrounds the whole community and a 24-hour security system provides safety within the premises. A Property Management Team is also in place to make sure that all facilities are properly maintained. Now you can sleep peacefully, knowing that your family and home are well cared for at Sorrento Oasis.

Concepcion underscores that Sorrento Oasis is true to Filinvest's commitment to innovative living spaces to fit the needs of the modern Filipino lifestyle. "With these urban havens, we strive to improve the quality of life of city dwellers all over the country," he adds.

Sorrento Oasis is the refreshing change that every family needs. Move in and come home to your own patch of freshness in the city.

Sorrento Oasis is another quality development by Filinvest. Through its core brands – Filinvest Premiere, the main Filinvest brand and Futura Homes – Filinvest builds the dreams of Filipinos all over the country. # How to ace your freshman year

Make new friends—that would make college life a lot more bearable

By Micah Angela B. Lim
Student Contributor,
Ateneo de Manila University

CONGRATULATIONS! IN A couple of weeks, you will be stepping into a different world. You're possibly scared, excited or both.

Whatever you're feeling right now, let me share with you some of the things I wish I was told three years ago on my very first day as a college kid.

Choose knowledge over mere grades

Begin the school year with a hunger for knowledge and awareness. Make learning—not getting a high grade—your top priority. Don't be the kind of student who would always choose classes based on teachers who easily give high grades.

I've taken classes under professors known for drowning students with [illegible] and heavy requirements. Do I wish I never did? No. Although their exams and quizzes stressed me out more than anything else, at the end of the semester, I was able to say I learned a lot because of them.

College is hardly about numerical values. Grades look good on paper, yes. But in the end, what will really count are the knowledge, skills and values that will stick with you as you work hard for learning's sake.

Keep it simple

"Freshmen—they always go to school like they're going to a party," observed one of my friends. Although having the freedom to wear whatever you want to school is exciting, use it with discretion.

Spare your teachers and other students from getting distracted by your clothes. There's nothing wrong with expressing yourself by dressing up, but keep in mind that college is about extensive learning and not excessive flaunting.

When it comes to wearing makeup, make sure you don't overdo it. Thick makeup is a bad idea especially if you're going to spend a lot of time walking from one building to another.

Once in my freshman year, I decided to come to school wearing thick eyeliner. Having taken a long walk to my classroom on a rainy day, my eyeliner smeared under my eyes. Upon entering my class, my blockmate said to me: "You look like [illegible]!"

Trust me, it's not the kind of comment you'd want to hear about yourself.

Laugh off the embarrassments

Freshman year is a critical period for every college student. It's a year of adjusting to the demands of college life. Should you get a couple of failures or embarrassing moments, be kind to yourself and don't dwell on them.

If you do, then it's very likely that you won't be getting the most from your college experience. Failing and being caught in an embarrassing situation early in your freshman year will not be the downfall of your entire college life. You'll get more chances to [illegible] them.

What's important is that you continue to work hard and hold your head high as you get used to the demands of your college or university.

Make as many friends as you can

I spent two years of my college life making friends only with my blockmates, classmates and a few of my friends' friends. I didn't participate in any organizations or make real connections with people beyond my [illegible].

In short, I had an unsatisfactory social circle. Come junior year, I started making new friends by dropping my reservations in social situations. I joined organizations and hung out with new people. You know what? It made me happier!

Expand your social circle. Spending time with friends both old and new will surely make your college life a lot more bearable.

College can get tough. It has the power to give you sleepless nights, bad skin, and an unhealthy appetite all at the same time. But I promise you, despite all that, once you find yourself surrounded by great people, you'll have more fun and love than you can imagine.

Students bare their 'peer pressure' moments

By choosing their friends wisely, they survive–amazingly

By Angelica Y. Yang
Student correspondent,
Immaculate Conception Academy

WHAT IS PEER pressure? "It's the ever-present impulse to fit in with 'popular' people," says 13-year-old E. Claire, an incoming high school freshman in an exclusive girls' school in Metro Manila.

"[It's] thinking that being one of them will make you be liked and accepted by their fellow students," she adds.

For 15-year-old Aldrych, an incoming junior in an all-boys school in Metro Manila, peer pressure is all about "students trying to protect their status so that they will remain 'cool.' They want to be accepted by the whole student body, so if you don't do what the others do, you're considered weird."

Thirteen-year-old Ambrosia da Pontes had her own rude awakening to peer pressure as she was graduating from grade school.

"All of us were invited to the farewell party, and we were supposed to meet a week after graduation at McDonald's with no parents, just a maid. When I told my parents that, they refused to let me go. When I told my classmates about it, I was like, 'This is so unfair!'"

Angel, 13, says she felt peer pressure "when lots of people were sharing answers during a quiz, and similar, when all the girls wore their hair in this certain style."

For 17-year-old Prettywildchild, it "would mean friends encouraging you to abuse substances like alcohol and get stupid in parties."

Worst experience

It gets most unbearable when the whole class gangs up on you—exactly what Rosalinda, a 15-year-old high school student in [illegible], went through.

"I think that the worst experience I had with peer pressure was when I was shunned by everybody for doing something I thought was right, though everybody else thought it was not my business. I told a friend her boyfriend was cheating on her. Everyone was pressuring me to keep quiet or just take back what I said, but I wouldn't, because I knew it was wrong. It was hard at first, because no one in class talked to me since they were all friends with the guy. But it gradually passed and they had no apologies."

But Rosalinda says living and studying in the province has its quirks. Peer pressure over smoking, drinking and sex is not the main issue of girls her age. Teenage "provincianas," she says, are all about "needing to have a boy, or girlfriend." The pressure is so great, she adds, that "it makes other people say 'yes' to suitors who they barely even know, or mistake infatuation for the real thing."

City dweller Prettywildchild nearly gave in to alcohol and drugs, just to belong. "I admit there were times I was tempted to indulge in them," she admits.

E. Claire, who finished valedictorian in grade school, was witness to friends who succumbed to peer pressure.

"I've seen people whose grades dropped and whose personalities took a turn for the worse because their supposed friends pressured them to conform to a warped version of 'cool.' It's frightening how easily negative peer pressure can destroy your life, just

10 TV shows that defined our era

They're ending or about to end—how did they impact our couch-potato moments?

By Adrian Ty

NOTHING LASTS FOREVER, certainly not on primetime TV. Old favorites get put out to pasture, while others that never found their footing get canned too soon.

This season is no different. Super lists 10 shows about to end or have ended that had the most impact on our everyday culture.

10. Melrose Place

There's a saying in Hollywood—"All the good stories have been told, everything now is just spin-offs and revivals."

[illegible]

Don't worry, however, if revivals are your thing. Next season sees re-imaginings of, among others, "La Femme Nikita," "Hawaii Five-O" and possibly, "The Rockford Files."

9. Better Off Ted

If "The Office" was about the absurdities of working in a small business, "Better Off Ted" was about the insanity of working in a cash-starved multinational [illegible]

8. Scrubs

7. NUMB3RS and 6. Cold Case

IN HIGH SCHOOL, I brought to class a copy of Marvel Comics' Marvel Illustrated Swimsuit Special of girl superheroes in skimpy bikinis, hoping to use it as ice-breaker with my crush.

It worked.

My comic book and I were the highlight of an otherwise monotonous school day, until I got sent to the head teacher's office and written up for bringing pornographic material to school.

Colin Farrell reveals how he 'surrendered' to love

LOS ANGELES—"I remember the day," Colin Farrell declared in an exaggerated manner, smiling as he answered a reporter's question on when he realized that he "had to surrender" to love.

The moment he "surrendered" to is Alicja Bachleda, an actress whom he met while they were filming "Ondine," writer-director Neil Jordan's take on the ageless "Irresistible" theme. Alicja is the mother of Henry, his second son, who is 7 months old.

"I was sitting on a bluff overlooking the Atlantic," Colin continued in a jokingly dramatic fashion. Then, he said grandly to laughter from the writers present, "I said, 'I must surrender. I must give in to this feeling inside.'"

Of Alicja, Colin gushed, "She's an amazing woman, incredibly smart, kind and a really cool mom. She's just really good." Are they eventually going to get married? "I don't know, man," he said. "Let's talk about that later."
